Resignation of Chief Financial Officer

Syft Technologies is today announcing that Chief Financial Officer, Nicole Robinson, has resigned for personal reasons. She will finish with the company at the end of August.

Syft CEO, Alex Fala comments, "Nicole has played a critical role at Syft over nearly 6 years at the company, most recently with the completion of the convertible note funding in July. She has been a guiding hand across the business through growth and more challenging times. We understand that now is the right time for her to focus on other priorities and thank her for her contribution."

As Syft is currently undertaking a strategic review, the company intends to appoint a replacement on an interim basis. We expect to announce that replacement very soon.
