The New Zealand Merino Company Limited appoints Angus Street Chief Executive Officer

The New Zealand Merino Company (NZMC) Limited is pleased to announce the appointment of agricultural industry leader, Angus Street, as Chief Executive Officer. Angus will commence the role in early August 2023.

Angus has extensive business leadership experience in the agricultural sector. Since 2018 he has served as CEO of AuctionsPlus, one of Australia's oldest and most successful Agtech businesses, where he led significant business growth and secured the platforms position as the largest agriculture marketplace in Australia.

Kate Mitchell, NZMC's Chair said, "We were delighted to employ a candidate of Angus's calibre to fill the chief executive role; the combination of his agriculture and technology experience makes him the ideal leader for NZMC's next phase of innovation and growth.

"This appointment is the result of a comprehensive global search which identified several strong candidates. The board believes Angus's deep appreciation and understanding of the agricultural sector, coupled with his proven track record of business growth will make him an asset to our growers, brand partners, and shareholders alike," said Kate.

Prior to joining AuctionsPlus, Angus founded Hop the Wall, a cross-border platform that allowed Australian businesses to list, market and sell their products to Chinese consumers, without the traditional hurdles that small businesses face when entering the Asian market. He has also held leadership roles with Bastion Collective, Hort Innovation, and Meat and Livestock Australia.

Angus will be relocating to Christchurch with his wife and two young children to take up the role in August, with Peter Floris the company's Chief Operating Officer, continuing to operate as Acting CEO in the interim.
